Nude calendar to seek models from Eastern

By A.L. LANDERS
Staff writer

Spring's warm weather usually brings the shedding of heavy winter clothes, right?

Publisher of the Nude Coed Calendar, Frank Trebusak, will soon be offering the women of Eastern the chance to take off more than a heavy sweater.

The featured nude beauties in Trebusak's 1985 and 1986 calendars were from Northern Illinois University, University of Illinois and Illinois State University.

Trebusak said he initially "went to the biggest schools to see how sales would go."

Sales went "pretty well" according to Trebusak. The 1985 calendar sold more than 3,000 copies, and the 1986 calendar has sold more than 4,000.

"In fact, we're still getting orders for the 1985 calendar," Trebusak said. "It's kind of become a collector's item."

Trebusak said the opportunity to pose fully or partially nude will be offered to Eastern women for the first time in an effort to boost sales to a statewide level.

The idea for a nude calendar came from a weekly column in Trebusak's hometown newspaper, The DeKalb NITE Weekly.

The column, Coed of the Week, featured a woman with a story and a picture in which the girls were allowed to "pose anyway they want," Trebusak said.

Whenever the photo happened to be a swimsuit or bikini shot, men would call in with a favorable response, Trebusak said.

"They wanted to see more skin," he said. Being one to fill a viable need, he created the Nude Coed Calendar.

Trebusak said he will advertise for models in The (See NUDE, page 6)

City could gain power source in dam repair

By JIM ALLEN
Staff reporter

According to an engineering study recently received by the city council, making the next Lake Charleston dam power source is feasible if the city takes quick action to get the plan passed.

A report by Gebhard Engineers, which the major engineering report prepared for the council by Hanson Engineers Inc. of Springfield, ended its summary with, "Therefore, the city should approve the preparation of an exemption application as quickly as possible after deciding to proceed with the project."

If the city wants a hydroelectric unit at the replacement dam, Gebhard officials said the city should file for a licensing exemption from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission soon because the agency takes six months to process an application.

Gebhard's report hinted that the possibility—seeking FERC licensing for the unit—would probably take twice as long as gaining a license exemption.

Council Executive Assistant Chris Daniels said Monday he didn't know whether the council would talk on the issue at its Tuesday meeting. The topic was listed on the council's agenda for the meeting.

The FERC will take so long, Gebhard said, because the agency will have to pass along the application to other agencies—the "most stringent" being the environmental and fishery management agencies.

If the other agencies call for "special studies" on any aspect of the dam, such as the affect on wildlife or the hydroelectric unit's construction, those studies need to be completed before each agency can submit "formal comment."

Those formal comments are then weighed by the FERC in its decision on whether to grant Charleston the licensing exemption.

However, the Gebhard report said "No adverse environmental impact or regulatory requirement has been identified (at the Charleston dam site)."

If the council goes with the option of making the dam hydroelectric, the initial cost was estimated to be $750,000. Gebhard's report estimated that the unit would net more than 3.7 million kilowatt hours per year which could either be sold to Central Illinois Public Services or used to power the city's water plant.

At 2.1 cents per kilowatt hour, the unit would produce an estimated yearly revenue for the city of $79,000, the report concluded.

"If the city of Charleston can use part of the power and sell the remainder, some of the power could have a higher value," the report said. "The estimate of constructing a hydroelectric unit is approximately $750,000, with the largest portion of costs for the 'water to wire' package of turbine, generator and controllers ($400,000)."

But outside the proposals, the city recently poured more money into the dam to build up the five "finger dikes" extending from the main dike holding back the city's water supply.

Assistant City Engineer Dan England said Monday that the city spent about $16,000 in making the smaller dikes about six feet higher. Currently, the dikes are not touching the water, which has receded into a river-like channel since January.

An aerial look at the Lake Charleston dam reveals where water is escaping into the Embarras River, creating problems downstream and receding banks along the lake.

England said the city will be appealing to the state Emergency Services and Disaster Agency for reimbursement for the finger dike raising, which England said was preventative work.

Lack of city support forces REJECT rally cancellation

By CHRISTAL PHILPOTT
Staff writer

Residents for Ejecting Choate, REJECT, has canceled its tentatively scheduled 6 p.m. April Fool's Day rally.

Sophomore REJECT co-organizer Jim East said the main reason the rally was canceled was because of lack of support from Charleston residents.

"I think if we'd kept on we could have gotten one, four, five thousand more petition signatures, but they would be Eastern students not town-people," East said.

"I think if we had presented it to the mayor, it would have had a polarizing effect between the city and the university."

East said REJECT wanted to avoid creating any more tension between the university and the city.

Co-organizer and former Eastern student John Best said REJECT has made its point. "More attention has been focused on the mayor and his poor performance. Maybe now the mayor will do a better job," Best said.

Although REJECT has canceled Tuesday's rally, Best said the REJECT group still exists. "We are not quitting. We are going to sit back and evaluate his (Choate) performance and if he has not bettered his performance REJECT will be back come election time," Best said.

Best said if the group takes further actions at election time, there is a strong possibility that it will be in the form of a rally.

"If the mayor and the administration don't do better, they'll definitely go down on a sinking ship," Best said.

Plans for the canceled rally included dedicating the April Fool's Day event to Choate, Best said. "We were going to officially call it Murray Choate Day."

East said lack of funds also played a minor role in the decision to cancel.

Best said REJECT has had a positive effect on Eastern.

"(Student Body President Floyd) Akins has promised to try to better relations between the city and the university," Best said. "We feel it is due to our effort."

Akins said communication has been one of the main problems between the university and the city in (See LACK, page 5)

Trial starts under heavy security

CROWN POINT, Ind.—Officials imposed heavy security Monday as jury selection began in the murder trial of accused serial killer Alton Coleman.

Coleman, 29, is charged in the 1984 strangulation of 7-year-old Tamika Turks of Gary. He is also charged with attempted murder and criminal deviate conduct in an assault on Turks' 11-year-old aunt.

Prosecutors will seek the death penalty for Miss Turks' death if Coleman is convicted.

Prospective jurors passed through a metal detector outside the Lake Superior Court chambers before two sheriff's deputies inspected purses and coats and frisked the men.

Doctors use computer for surgery

CHAMPAIGN—As patients watch, plastic surgeons are redesigning their faces on a television screen instead of in the operating room, with a computer stylus instead of a scalpel.

It's like looking in a mirror and seeing the person they would like to be—the person they could be after cosmetic surgery.

"This eliminates pre-surgical anxiety," said Tony Scott, whose company is one of several offering these new computer systems. "If the patients are worried about how they look, you can bet they will be anxious about the surgery."

Laid off Pekinite wins $5 million

PEKIN—Danny Golden's depression over being laid off from work lasted about three days—until he learned he had won $5 million in the Illinois State Lottery's Lotto game.

"It just hasn't sunk in how much it really is," an out-of-breath Golden said Monday. "You always talk about what to do with this kind of money. But when you get it, you're kind of dumbfounded."

Golden, 32, who said he was laid off Thursday from his job as a truck driver from MH Equipment Inc., was the only Lotto player Saturday to correctly match all six numbers.

Former arms control negotiators regret Reagan's summit decline

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former American arms control negotiators expressed regret Monday at President Reagan's rejection of a U.S.-Soviet summit meeting to ban nuclear weapons tests, calling it a lost opportunity to curb the arms race.

While none of these analysts was surprised by Reagan's rebuff of Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev's proposal, they were virtually unanimous in characterizing the president's action as a setback and in saying it broke a long-term commitment with the Russians.

Rep. Les Aspin, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said of administration officials, "They are rejecting something that's worth pursuing."

And a Soviet official visiting here said Gorbachev will not be deterred in offering proposals to challenge the Reagan administration to slow the nuclear weapon competition.

"We will be coming up with other initiatives," said Sergei Plekhanov, a department head at the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences. He said that will happen "not because we have been painted into a corner and forced to be nice" but because "there's no other way."

Entering the minority view of U.S. analysts now prominent in the private arms control community, James T. Hackett, former acting director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, said new U.S. weapons tests were "absolutely essential to maintain the integrity" of the American nuclear deterrence.

Hackett, now an official of the Heritage Foundation, a conservative research group, said it was the only way to assure warheads were not deteriorating and likely to malfunction.

Mexican air plane crash kills 166

MORELIA, Mexico (AP)—A Mexicana Airline jet carrying 166 people crashed into a mountain in central Mexico Monday shortly after leaving Mexico City for two Pacific resorts and Los Angeles, and all aboard were killed, the airline said.

The Boeing 727 went down about 90 miles northwest of Mexico City, near Maravatio.

It was the worst air disaster since a chartered DC-8 with a crew of eight that was carrying 248 U.S. servicemen home for Christmas from the Middle East crashed just after takeoff from Gander, Newfoundland, on Dec. 12, and all perished.

"Unfortunately, there are no survivors" among the 158 passengers and eight crew members, Mexicana spokesman Fernando Martinez Cortes told reporters. He said Federal Highway Police were the first to arrive at the scene and reported all those aboard apparently were killed on impact.

"A little more than halfway up the mountain you could see a plume of smoke, white smoke. You could distinctly see the plume of white smoke and several small fires around it," said Associated Press correspondent Isaac A. Lee, who flew near the site in a chartered aircraft.

The airport at Morelia, the capital of Michoacan state, made arrangements to receive the bodies. One hanger was being prepared as makeshift morgue, and airline officials requested lime, bags and other emergency supplies.

Faculty Senate discusses fears about revisions

By WENDY SATTLER

Staff writer

In what is expected to be a short meeting, the Faculty Senate will discuss its concerns about possible revisions of various academic councils, said chairman Jane Ozier.

Official results of faculty elections and a constitutional amendment will also be announced in a short meeting Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Martinsville Room of the Union addition, Ozier said.

A committee was formed by the academic affairs office which is reviewing the functions of three standing committees, the Council on Academic Affairs, the Council on Graduate Studies, and the Council on Teacher Education.

Edgar Schick, vice president for academic affairs, said the committee was organized by his office to "review what was printed on the documents" that officially describe the councils' functions.

At the last meeting, senators expressed concerns over possible loss of Faculty Senate control over the councils.

Senator Janet Norberg said Monday she was concerned with the "intent of the investigation by the committee."

"Why is the vice president of academic affairs interested in doing a study of committees which are under the jurisdiction of the Faculty Senate? My concern is I don't want any further erosion of faculty input," Norberg said.

However, Norberg said she couldn't make any final judgments until she hears Schick's recommendations Tuesday.

Marcos calls Aquino a 'monster'

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—Ferdinand E. Marcos said Monday that he was not corrupt but that President Corazon Aquino is, and he may return from exile to rescue Filipinos from a "monster" bent on enslaving them.

The former president, who fled Feb. 26, commented in a message and handwritten letter, calling himself a victim of the "blackest of propaganda." He accused "elements of the American government" of helping oust him.

He said Aquino was the "No. 1 looter," a charge that has been made against Marcos. A source close to Marcos made the tape of the message and a copy of the letter available to the Associated Press.

Presidential spokesman Rene Saguisag said Aquino greeted the comments "with typical calm and equanimity." He said Marcos, 68, may be allowed to return "in the distant future, but not just now."

"The greatest service Marcos has done to the Filipino nation is to leave it," Saguisag said. "He should not negate it by threatening to come back."

In a telephone statement from Honolulu, which the source said was taped Monday, Marcos said: "We must war again against the monster who imposes slavery." The voice was clearly his.

A postscript to an eight-page letter dated March 21 and addressed to "My beloved Filipino countrymen" in his own province, Ilocos Norte, said: "Death, yes, we will accept perhaps, but slavery never, never, never."

Marcos told reporters in Honolulu on Sunday that he still considers himself president.

The letter was written on stationery of Malacanang Palace, which has become a museum to preserve what Aquino's government calls the excesses of Marcos and his wife Imelda.

Marcos accused Aquino of allowing her followers to loot his palace and try on hundreds of dresses Imelda left behind.

"There was looting not only by the poor but by the rich and the powerful. . . The more outstanding ladies in the opposition started fitting and using the dresses of the First Lady," he said.

"Cry, my beloved people. . . There is trouble abroad in the land, trouble that reaches every corner."

"In one message from the U.S. Embassy to the Office of Media Affairs, the deputy officer in the U.S. Embassy threatened the use of Marines, United States Marines, against Marcos to prevent Marcos from utilizing his superior military power against the rebels," he said.

Associates in Manila have quoted him as saying he could have crushed the uprising that drove him out but did not want to shed blood. His tanks turned away from hundreds of thousands of people guarding rebel soldiers in two Manila military camps.

Marcos said he insisted on being taken from the palace to Ilocos Norte, but instead the U.S. Air Force took him to Clark Air Base and later Guam. He said his personal luggage was opened and ransacked.

He had Philippine currency with him because he intended to go to Ilocos Norte, Marcos said. U.S. Customs officials said he carried the equivalent of $1.2 million, which Marcos said on the tape was from campaign and personal funds.

City council agenda includes raffle license, curfew, handicap parking

By CHRYSTAL PHILPOTT

City editor

City council will consider a raffle license which could cause fraternities, sororities and other organizations holding raffles to pay a $10 fee.

The raffle license is just one of several items on the council's agenda for Tuesday's 7 p.m. meeting at the city municipal building at 720 Jackson St.

Earlier proposals set the fee at $25, which drew criticism from many campus groups which regularly hold raffles as part of their fund raising activities.

The license would impose several restrictions on groups holding raffles. Prizes could not exceed $30,000, the maximum charge for a raffle ticket would be set at $100, the maximum period a raffle license would be good for would be 180 days and each license would only be valid for one raffle.

The council will also consider the Charleston curfew for children under 17, which prohibits them from remaining in public places after midnight Friday and Saturday nights and after 11 p.m. Sunday through Thursday nights.

However, children may be out after curfew when accompanied by an someone 21 or older.

Children found violating curfew would be picked-up by the police and held in custody until a parent or guardian came for the child.

The acceptance of the bid by Ne Co Asphalt for lime sludge removal at the city Water Treatment Plant will also be considered. Ne Co's bid of $600 beat out bids by four other companies.

The bids ranged from $1000 to $150.

The council will consider the emergency permit authorizing replacement of two pipes at the Water Treatment Plant.

The two cast iron inlet and outlet piping structures are located at the recarbonation basis. The breakage has resulted in water leakage at the plant.

The council will discuss taxi cab stands for the north side of Monroe Ave.

trouble," England said. "Even though it looks like there's no reason to build those up, you really have to be prepared."

In the meantime, the collapsed dam still holds the reputation as being one of Coles County's biggest tourist attractions, which England said still spells danger.

As the unseasonably warm temperatures settled into the 80s on Sunday and Monday, dam sightseers were seen walking and sunbathing on the silt areas where a lake once resided.

"They shouldn't be out there," England said. "But now that the weather's getting nicer and more people are going out there, we're going to need to step up our police surveillance of the area."

"It's dangerous out there because those people don't realize there are some places where you can sink in to at least your waist."

Since the dam broke open in November, England has estimated that the site has drawn about a hundred carloads of people a day with much higher numbers on fair-weather weekends.

After the dam burst, Charleston police initially patrolled the area heavily, making almost hourly checks at the site. Since then, fencing and warning signs have been put in place by city workers.

War with Libya a frightening thought for us

Journalist Helen Thomas, who will lecture at Eastern on Wednesday, translated the potential impact of America's brush with Libya last week into terms we could all understand.

United Press International's White House bureau chief, Thomas asked of White House Spokesman Larry Speakes, "So is this war?"

The question still rings in our ears, as it should in everyone else's—especially male students who would be the first to go if indeed it was war.

Perhaps the impact comes from the mere fact we haven't heard such a question during our lifetimes (other than Grenada) because for most of us the Vietnam War began just as we were born, if not before.

Last week's American naval exercises in the Gulf of Sidra captured everyone's attention because it was an easily understandable issue. Collectively, Americans fear nothing more than the word "war," and for a split second, as Thomas portrayed, we thought we were on the brink of it.

Thus far, we can cautiously view the exercises as a success. No Americans were injured; no harm was done to American military equipment; and most of all, Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy was directly challenged, and he backed down.

Admittedly, Khadafy, who has taken credit for December terrorist attacks at Rome and Vienna airports in which five Americans were killed, deserves anything he gets.

Not only has Khadafy proven to be a threat to the countries surrounding Libya, but he willingly takes credit for terrorism whose aim is taking innocent lives.

How the Reagan administration deals with the menace deserves careful consideration. Washington may have succeeded in its effort to intimidate Khadafy. But, is there a need to escalate things?

It's fine to keep Khadafy "in his box," as Secretary of State George Schultz says. But at the expense of going to war, it might serve well to keep in mind this country still has a bad taste in its mouth from the last war it fought.

'Home sweet home' isn't the same after spending 4 years as a student

Every time I go home, I return to Eastern more shocked about my parents than ever before.

This time I'm really worried about the old folks. I'm not worried because they did anything very unusual. I'm frightened because I realize that after I leave this incredible institution I will be forced to live with them for more than just a few weeks. At the rate I'm going I'll probably have to live at home for a few years. But that's another story.

See, what most of us fail to understand, especially those of us who are the last to leave the nest, is that while we've had a great deal a freedom and have taken on our own ways of surviving, our parents have done the same thing.

Most of have come to be night people. The thought of turning in before the midnight hour seems ridiculous. But parents keep getting older. Their idea of a wild night is watching cable television, drinking some warm milk and crawling into bed by 10 p.m.

As a result of getting older, parents often become more conservative. Take my father. He was once more liberal than anybody I knew. Suddenly he has become the a greater Reagan fan than Ron himself.

On a more basic level, while most of us have grown accustomed to picking up our sanctuaries once a month, our parents have become totally tidy.

The saddest aspect is that our parents have a hard time dealing with our new habits. After all, we're their little prides and joys. We were never supposed to grow up or take on new identities during the last four years. Thus, when a recently acquired habit shows its ugly heads our parents go into a state of shock.

What's the point?

And they worry. My mother called me eight times a day during break to make sure gypsies hadn't stolen me away. When I would go out, she wanted complete details of what I had done. I had thought about claiming that I had run off with a gang of hoodlums, but I figured my mother was too young to have her first heart attack.

What it all really boils down to is that parents can't stand to have their children grow up. They expect complete dependence. We want total independence.

I always thought it would be great to return from college, lie around my folks' house, live off their money and think great thoughts. I'm almost to the point where I would rather work and allow all of us to live happily ever after in separate houses.

Maybe Thomas Wolfe was correct when he wrote that "you can never go home."

20,000 attend memorial for black

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—About 20,000 blacks defied a ban Monday to attend a memorial for a Communist Party leader who died in exile, and an activist announced resumption of a regional boycott of white businesses.

The memorial for Moses Mabhida, a black nationalist who died March 8 in Mozambique, was held at a soccer stadium, but a reporter said they did not interfere despite a government ban on outdoor gatherings. Anti-apartheid violence often has followed such mass funerals or memorials.

Mkhulesi Jack, a prominent anti-apartheid activist, announced during the four-hour service that a black consumer boycott of white-owned businesses in Port Elizabeth would resume April 7.

A boycott last year severely affected white businesses. It was suspended after four months.

Jack said the principal reason for renewing it was the recent killings of blacks by police, including 11 deaths last Wednesday during a disturbance in the township of Kwazakele near Port Elizabeth. Jack said, "The only thing now is to boycott the Boers until they starve to death. The boycott is the only language they can understand."

Gesturing to the nearby police and army units,

Jack added: "When are they going to get time to relax with their families when they are watching us all the time?"

More than 1,250 people have been killed, nearly all of them black, during 19 months of violence against apartheid, the official racial policy that assures supremacy for South Africa's five million whites and denies rights to the 24 million blacks.

At one point in the service, the crowd observed a moment of silence for Mabhida and many in the stadium waved clenched fists.

Mabhida, who was buried with military honors Saturday in Maputo, Mozambique, was general secretary of the South African Communist Party and a member of the outlawed African National Congress guerrilla movement. He was 62 when he died and had been in exile for 25 years.

His family had planned to bury him in South Africa, with tens of thousands of mourners attending. The funeral was held in Muputo after South African authorities said they would restrict it to Mabhida's relatives and close friends.

Police reported relative calm in the nation's black townships as the four-day Easter holiday weekend drew to a close.

Classical recital features pianist

By JULIE LEWIS
Activities editor

Eastern music instructor George Sanders will give a recital 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Dvorak Concert Hall located in the Fine Arts building.

Sanders, one of four studio piano instructors, will perform seven compositions.

Sanders said the faculty recital audience is usually made up of students, faculty members and Charleston residents of all ages.

"I feel like this recital will offer a well balanced variety of (musical) pieces," Sanders said.

The classical solo pieces will include Ravel, Debussy, Blacher and Mendelssohn.

Sanders' wife, Karen, will perform Greig's Four Norwegian Dances and Milhaud's Scaramuche Suite with him.

One piece will be a duet on two pianos and the other on one piano.

Sanders, who has been performing in faculty recitals for 21 years, said that as a performer he enjoyed playing in the recitals.

"This music is good for me and I think it will be good for the audience too," said Sanders.

the past. In an effort to ease relations between the two Akins said he plans "just sit down and talk" with Choate.

Best said one reason town support wasn't stronger was many people were frightened by Choate's power. "Look at the bar situation. Apparently the mayor can just walk into a bar and say 'well you guys aren't doing a good job' and then suspend their license."

Best said they (REJECT) had received a lot of 'underground support' from city businessmen who, in fear of their jobs and businesses, refused to publicly admit their opposition to Choate.

Among those publicly in support of REJECT, East said, were senior student senator Suzanne Murrie, former Eastern student Bob Buehler, junior art major Jim Hampton, English instructor Pat Wright and history instructor George Jones.

Choate said he does not feel threatened or limited by the petitions. "My position is the same as it was before the petitions were passed around," he said.

Public Works Commissioner Wayne Lanman said he hasn't seen any petitions yet.

"I've heard of some circulating, but I haven't actually seen them," he said. "I did talk to some people today (Monday) who were thinking of circulating petitions."

Lanman said if petitions against Choate should be presented to the council, they would be given serious consideration.

"If say 5,000 people sign a petition, sure it would influence me. I would say it has probably influenced him (Choate) some already," Lanman said.

Daily Eastern News for the 1987 Nude Coed Calendar beginning Monday and ending April 16.

"We're looking for attractive, well-shaped, well-proportioned ladies," Trebusak said. "Around 36-24-34, that's what the men want."

Trebusak said the models will be paid $200 for a topless photo and $300 if she dares to bare it all.

"I don't care which way the model chooses to pose, it's her choice," he said. "Although most of the girls chose to pose fully nude last year."

Trebusak said the photos will be "full frontal nudity." No wet t-shirt or side view shots will be in the calendar.

"The photos will be done in an artful, tasteful Playboy manner by a professional model photographer," Trebusak said.

When asked if he has ever had any protest from the college communities where the calendars are sold, Trebusak said he has received negative phone calls and was threatened with a petition at NIU that never materialized.

"I actually have more women calling to pose than protesting the calendar," Trebusak said.

The women who pose for the calendars are mostly models who have either modeled professionally or for art classes, Trebusak said.

"The money is fine for them," Trebusak said. "Most are very attractive women who are very comfortable with their bodies and aren't afraid to show it if it is done in a tasteful manner."

Trebusak said he plans to begin shooting photos for the 1987 calendar at the end of April.

Guide says to become dentists

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—A 1908 guide advised Greeks arriving in the New World to bathe regularly, speak softly and become dentists so they could prosper by fixing the bad teeth Americans develop by eating too much candy.

"The Immigrant's Guide in America," a pocket-sized, illustrated 403-page book of practical advice in Greek, was published in New York. Alexandros Kitroeff, a Greek historian, said it is the earliest known guide for Greeks arriving in the United States.

Seraphim G. Canoutas, the lawyer who wrote it, included information ranging from immigration formalities at Ellis Island to a list of more than 5,000 Greek-owned businesses in the United States and Canada.

"It's aimed at helping Greek immigrants become assimilated in what must have been very alien surroundings, and it apparently sold very well," Kitroeff, who found Canoutas' book in the library of the Greek parliament, said in an interview.

The guide covers pitfalls and possibilities for the more than 300,000 Greeks who emigrated to the United States between 1890 and 1914.

In the chapter "American Life, Ethics, Customs and Paradoxes," Canoutas sets out to view life in New York through the eyes of a teen-age immigrant from a Greek village.

Pope condemns 'sacrilegious' movie of Mary

CHICAGO (AP)—The French film "Hail Mary," scheduled to open Friday in Chicago, already is drawing protests from Catholics and other Christians unable to envision the mother of Jesus as a service station attendant.

Dozens of people have called to object to the showing of the film, saying it depicts Mary in an unfavorable light, according to James Madigan, assistant director of Facets Multimedia.

Facets plans to show the feature by producer Jean-Luc Godard during a two-week run, Madigan said in a telephone interview Monday.

The film, which has been denounced by Pope John Paul II, presents the Immaculate Conception in a modern setting with Mary as a gas station attendant, Joseph as a cabdriver and the angel Gabriel as a scruffy fellow who travels by jet. It contains nudity, but no sex.

Cardinal Joseph Bernardin of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago has scheduled a prayer service Friday to counter the film's opening, and the archdiocese has issued a statement objecting to the screening.

Meanwhile, Deborah Elsner of west suburban Willowbrook, said she hopes to gather 2,000 demonstrators outside the theater Friday for a "rosary rally" to protest the film. Elsner, a Roman Catholic, said Bernardin's service is not a strong enough protest of the film.

"I'm raising four daughters, trying to teach them about Mary and how sacred she is," Elsner said. "The film ridicules her."

Sister Joy Clough, a spokeswoman for the archdiocese, said in a statement last week that the special service was intended to be a positive statement of Catholics' respect for Mary.

"Picketing at the theater calls attention to the film," the statement said. "We'd rather call attention to our admiration for Mary as a model of lifelong faith, trust and love, both in ordinary daily circumstances and through extraordinary moments of crisis."

Madigan said he also received calls from people urging Facets not to knuckle under to protesters and cancel the showing, and he said one caller vowed to organize a counter-demonstration supporting the film.

"I will admit, though, that most of the calls have been from people voicing objections," he said.

When "Hail Mary" made its nationwide debut in October in New York, it was denounced by Cardinal John J. O'Connor as "blasphemous and sacrilegious," and theater-goers were greeted by thousands of protesters.

Division III school swings big time; Lady netters host Principia College

By MICHAEL CLARK
Staff writer

Going into Tuesday's match against Division-III power Principia College, Eastern's women's tennis team will try to keep up the momentum it gained during spring break.

The highly touted Principia team, one of the top Division III teams in the nation, features the No. 1 Division-III player.

The two teams have faced each other the last two years, with Eastern winning last season's match 6-3. The Indians, however, were without their No. 2 player last year.

A few of the Principia team members were also recovering from an outbreak of measles.

"The match will be very close," Eastern coach Gail Richards said. "They feature one of the top players in Division III."

During break, the Lady Panthers faced seven non-conference teams. They won four of the matches, which included wins over Murray State and the University of Evansville.

"We're getting ready to go into conference play," Richards said. "The No. 1, two and three players know what they have to do to accomplish what they want."

The Lady Panthers are led this season by seniors Lauri Lehman, Diana Durkee and Sally Stout, and junior Lori Zupanci.

"I felt our No. 1 player, Lauri Lehman, had some nice matches," Richards said. "Our one through three doubles teams played well on the break."

After the Principia match, Eastern will travel April 8 to Illinois State University before returning home for the EIU Quadrangular meet April 11 and 12.

Joining the Lady Panthers in the meet will be University of Northern Iowa, Indiana State University and Southwest Missouri State University.

"We're concentrating and getting gearing up for the (Gateway) conference matches (in April)," Richards added.

Cards' Cox sidelined by ankle injury; No. 2 pitcher could miss 2 months

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)— Danny Cox, whose 18 victories helped propel the St. Louis Cardinals into the 1985 World Series, could be sidelined for two months after suffering a bone chip in his right ankle on a fishing trip, a team spokesman said Monday.

Cox, second in the Cardinals' starting rotation, injured himself during a fishing trip in St. Petersburg on Sunday.

"I jumped off a sea wall while I was going fishing and I didn't land right," Cox said. "I've done it a thousand times. It's just a freak accident. I didn't think it hurt that bad."

Team spokesman Kip Ingle said the wall was between 3 feet and 4 feet high.

Team physician Dr. Stan London checked X-rays of Cox's ankle Sunday night and decided not to put it in a cast, Ingle said.

The Cardinals right-hander will undergo therapy on the ankle and be on crutches until Wednesday, when London will determine if he needs to be placed in a cast, Ingle said. If that happens, he said, Cox could be out of action for two months.

Ingle said he did not know how long Cox would be out if London determines the ankle does not have to be placed in a cast.

Cox was 18-9 last year with 10 complete games and four shutouts. He also won one game in the NL Championship Series and started two World Series games against the Kansas City Royals, but did not get a decision in either.

Manager Whitey Herzog has said he planned to use Cox second in the starting rotation behind John Tudor. The Cardinals' starting rotation had been the biggest question mark going into spring training.

With Joaquin Andujar having been traded to the Oakland A's during the off-season, the starting slots after Cox were up for grabs between Bob Forsch, Rick Ownby, Kurt Kepshire, Ricky Horton and Tim Lincecum, who was obtained from Oakland in the Andujar deal.

Connors starts 10-week suspension

NEW YORK (AP)—Veteran Jimmy Connors paid a $20,000 fine and began a 10-week suspension Monday, the Men's International Professional Tennis Council said.

The 33-year-old Connors, the world's fourth-ranked men's player, will not be able to play in a sanctioned tournament until June 9.

"He has paid his fine and said he would begin his suspension," John Hewig, director of communications for the Pro Council, said.

Connors assessed the fine and suspension by the MPTC after refusing to continue play during his semifinal match against Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia in the Lipton International Players Championships at Boca Raton, Fla., Feb. 21. The dispute began over a line call on a ball Connors thought was out.

He was fined $5,000 at the time by Ken Ferrar, the chief MPTC supervisor, and it was taken from his earnings of $28,150. The additional $20,000 fine and 10-week suspension were levied following an investigation of the incident by M. Marshall Happer III, administrator of the MPTC.

Connors lost a semifinal match Saturday to eventual champion Boris Becker of West Germany in the Volvo-Chicago Tennis Tournament. He had planned to take a break from the tour and return in time for the French Open, the only Grand Slam tournament he has not won. The French Open begins May 26 and ends June 8.

However, the suspension means that Connors is the first player to be suspended through one of the Grand Slam tournaments for misconduct.

Connors was told of Happer's recommendation March 17, the same time it was admitted to Michael Davies, chairman of the nine-man Pro Council.

The NCAA Championship Game has Eastern's all-time rebounder, Kevin Duckworth, glued to his television set. Duckworth is pulling for the victorious Louisville Cardinals, who clipped Duke 72-69.

which team won the title, the game was going to a close affair.

Sophomore forward Ronnie Duckworth said he believed Duke's momentum and strength would carry the Blue Devils to victory in Dallas' Reunion Arena.

"I think Duke is more prepared," Ron said. "Johnny Dawkins has just been doing great."

"The only way it won't be a close game is if somebody like Billy Thompson for Louisville or Dawkins for Duke gets in foul trouble. If they lose an important player (because of fouls) it could be a wider margin."

But senior cousin Kevin Duckworth went with coach Denny Crum's Louisville Cardinals.

"I like Louisville," Kevin, Eastern's all-time leading rebounder and No. 3 career scorer, said.

"They're strong in every category. Louisville has more depth. Duke will need more than just Johnny Dawkins to play well," he said.

"Louisville by two," Kevin said.

Duckworth's backup center, freshman Brian Murphy picked the ACC champion Blue Devils.

"Duke will pull it out," Murphy said. "They've been doing it all year long, and they can handle the pressure."

Sophomore point guard Norm Evans picked Metro Conference titlist Louisville to win by "no more than five points."

"I like Johnny Dawkins, he's such a good player," Evans said.

Evans also has a personal interest in the Blue Devils—childhood friend Weldon Williams, a reserve forward on the Duke squad.

Eastern's second baseman Rick Steriotti practices bunting during a Panther workout. The Panther record stands at 12-6 as the team prepares for a double-header in Edwardsville against the Cougars. Bradley will visit the Panthers at 1 p.m. Wednesday in their home opener.

Sluggers will need their big sticks against Division II power Cougars

By DAN VERDUN
Sports editor

Although Tuesday's opponent will come in the form of Division-II Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, Eastern coach Tom McDevitt isn't about to take it lightly.

The Panthers, 12-6, will travel to Edwardsville to square off against the Cougars, 9-4, in an afternoon double-header.

"We're got our hands full both days," McDevitt said referring also to Eastern's 1 p.m. home opener Wednesday with Bradley.

"He (SIU-E coach Gary "Bo" Collins) told me last January that this is the best team he's ever had, and they're coming off a trip to the (Division II) College World Series last year," McDevitt said.

The Cougars have qualified for the Division-II World Series two of the last three seasons.

"We do have our best pitching ever," Collins said. "We'll be throwing our two best, Tony Dueas and John Groennert, at Eastern."

The Panthers will counter with right-handed senior Bill Jose in the first game and left-handed freshman

Eric Hillman in the second.

"Hillman pitched well against Troy State and Murray (State)," McDevitt said. "But the last time out, he had a tough outing.

"Jose has been shaky his last two outings," McDevitt said. "He was upstairs on nearly every pitch so I pulled him immediately."

While both coaches said they were pleased for the most part with their pitching, each has been disappointed with their teams' hitting.

"We haven't hit our potential yet," McDevitt said. "In our 3-1 loss at Southern Indiana (Saturday) we had the bases drunk and we didn't score."

Collins, meanwhile, said his Cougars are "beginning to come around with the bats."

SIU-E holds the distinction of being the only team to shut the Panthers out last season. The Cougars defeated Eastern 2-0 in the second game of a double-header at Monier Field. Eastern took the first contest 9-2.

McDevitt said that he plans to start right-handers Dave Goodhue and Jim Wilkins in Wednesday's home opener.

Duke thwarted by all-purpose Louisville unit

DALLAS (AP)—Freshman Pervis Ellison scored 25 points, including four in the last 41 seconds Monday night, as No. 7 Louisville beat top-ranked Duke 72-69 to win its second NCAA national basketball championship in six years.

Louisville, although hounded by Duke's pest guards Johnny Dawkins and Tommy Amaker, grabbed the lead for good at 66-65 on Billy Thompson's jumb shot with 2:47 remaining.

Ellison, who had 11 rebounds, grabbed Jeff Hall's missed shot and put it in with 41 seconds left for 68-65 advantage. Then he snarled a rebound after a missed shot by Duke's David Henderson and fouled. He made two foul shots with 27 seconds remaining.

Milt Wagner canned two free throws with two seconds left to clinch Louisville's 17th straight victory of the season and end the Blue Devils' 21-game win streak. The Cardinals finished 32-7 this season and dropped Duke to 37-3.

The loss spoiled the winningest season in NCAA history. Duke's 37 wins surpassed by one the previous record of the 1948 Kentucky team, which won the NCAA title.

Lead by All-American guard Dawkins' 15 points and the ballhawking of both Dawkins and Amaker, the Atlantic Coast Conference champions built a 31-34 halftime lead.

Thompson, 6-foot-7 senior, added 13 points for Louisville, while Herbert Crook had 10. Wagner, who entered the game with a career total of 1,832 points, scored only nine, almost six points under his average.

Dawkins, the leading scorer in Duke's history, finished with 24 points. Henderson added 14, Mark Alarie 12 and Amaker 11.

NCAA contest predicted well by Panthers

By DAN VERDUN
Sports editor

Once the NCAA Basketball Championship had ended, Eastern center Kevin Duckworth let out a rebel yell, while roommate forward Ronnie Duckworth let out a Bronx cheer.

Overall, Eastern's basketball players had predicted that the contest would be a close one, but none had predicted the game as close as Kevin.

Kevin had predicted a two point Cardinal victory. Louisville defeated Duke 72-69 for the crown.

"It's great. At first I wanted Cleveland State to win, but after they lost, I liked Louisville," Kevin said after the game.

"I thought Duke was going to run away with the game. They had Louisville in foul trouble and Johnny Dawkins was playing great," he said.

"They won by three," Kevin said. "And I picked them to win by two points, but that's OK."

Ron could only concede to Kevin's pregame prediction. "He ribbed me a little bit after the game," Ron said. "But I was bothering him when Duke was winning (by eight points with 12 minutes remaining)."

"Louisville got the breaks and played hard when they needed it. I can't knock them—they earned it," Ron added.

Going into the tipoff into Wednesday night's NCAA Championship some members of Eastern's basketball team all agreed on one point—no matter what (See NCAA, page 11)
